INTRODUCTION, DUTIES, AND RESPONSIBILITIES

The purpose of this position is to supervise workers, either directly or through one or more subordinate leaders and/or supervisors, in accomplishing the operations of a distinct organizational unit and to perform associated nonsupervisory work. The occupation and nonsupervisory grade level which best reflects the nature of the overall work operations supervised is Aircraft Mechanic, WG-8602-10.

DUTIES & RESPONSIBILITIES INCLUDE, BUT ARE NOT LIMITED TO: (1) Plans weekly, or monthly work schedules and sequence of operations. (2) Assigns tasks to be performed. (3) Recommends and participates in the selection of personnel to fill vacancies. (4) Performs the nonsupervisory work of the function as needed. (5) Implements safety regulatory requirements. (6) Prepares for and participates in various types of readiness evaluations, inspections, mobilization and command support exercises. (7) Performs other duties as assigned.

REQUIRED SPECIALIZED EXPERIENCE

Must have 36 months experience performing assignments such as troubleshooting and repairing operational engines in aircraft on the flightline, rebuilding or modifying engines in test cells, and correcting defects that will require extensive disassembly. Characteristic of work at this level is the need to consider the total engine system when troubleshooting or evaluating engine performance. In addition must have experience supervising through subordinate supervisors which required a general knowledge of supervisory concepts and a knowledge of shop procedures. Resume must reflect military and non-military experience related to the position.

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION:

1. Skill in the use of measuring instruments such as vibration analyzers to detect and locate the source of vibration in propellers, reduction gears, or engine rotors, pyrometers to check engine combustion, and test benches which read multiple parameters in oil, air vacuum, and torque.
 2. Knowledge of engine repair practices in order to identify and correctly choose between alternative methods and trade techniques, to adapt accepted repair procedures to new or unfamiliar engines or accessory systems, to anticipate that tools and parts will be required, and to set up the work area.
 3. Knowledge of the installation, operation and repair of gas turbine or reciprocating aircraft engines and accessory systems in order to maintain, repair, or test different types of engines in aircraft tests, cells or maintenance shops, determine methods of repair to use, degree of disassembly necessary, and serviceability of parts or rework required before assembly.
 4. Skill and ability to plan the use of workers, equipment, facilities, materials, and tools on a day-to-day or project-by-project basis.
